L@RC - Lancaster Activist Resource Centre - in The Basement is a collectively run resource centre and meeting space. L@RC has information on local and worldwide issues, grassroots direct action, a book and video library, Linux computers with internet connection, kids' space, brew facilities, resources for costume making, banner painting and the flier laying out. Pop in for a cuppa and look around any Wed. pm!
Under Single Step and Whale Tail: 78a Penny St, (Open Wed)

- you'll find it. Our favourite park. Lots of nice trees, views to Lake District and the spacey Ashton Memorial (big thing left by aliens one night).
- 3. Scotch Quarry urban woodland.
- Canal avoid the roads, go south for beautiful countryside, north for the Lune Aquaduct and the seaside at Hest Bank.

Transport

- 33. Bus Station

- 11,12,34,40 Bike Shops
- 🚆 Train Station
- 🚲 Cycle Path to Glasson (Lune Estuary) head west along south bank of river
- 🚲 Cycle Path to Morecambe cross Millenium Bridge and turn left "The seaside town they forgot to close down"
- 🚲 Cycle Path to Halton, Caton and Bull Beck - the Lune Valley is beautiful
- 🚲 Cycle Path to Uni mostly along quiet roads.

We've only put local shops in this list. Other places to get organic food, allegedly cruelty free cosmetics etc (ie supermarkets, chain stores) aren't on the map 'cos they bankrupt local businesses, take money out of the area, push GM, ship products up and down the country and are just socially and environmentally nasty. (More about why they're nasty: www.corporatewatch.org.uk). Oh, and we left out those charity shops which (as far as we could find out) support animal testing...
The problem when doing the guide was what to leave out! We had lists of local groups, comments and descriptions, a longer list of places, but we just couldn't fit it onto the page. So we decided to leave out all the things which we thought we could rely on you to find for yourselves by asking in the Tourist Information Office, checking the yellow pages, reading notice boards and flyposters, looking at virtual-lancaster.net or asking people on the street.
NB We haven't updated the actual map for a couple of years - so minor details like the number and location of CCTV have changed quite a bit...
